1. HELEN MASON captures the constantly changing energy of the sea and the solid permanence of the landscape. Her instinctive style results in pieces that are highly intuitive. Having defied the idea that we have to 'make it' in our 20's, she came into art in her 40's and relies on memories to convey 'inscape' held within. Explore her work at www.helenmason.ie and follow @masonhelen

2. Contemporary painter MELISSA SCHAINKER has a fine art background that she uses to craft vivid oil artworks. Seen here is her dramatic piece, "Cacaphony". Her emotive pieces incorporate a surrealism style to depict great feeling in her portraits and abstract designs. Exhibiting in New York and internationally, with this piece seen in as seen at NYC Arts Empire in Soho, NYC. See more at www.mschainkerfineart.com and Instagram @mschainkerfineart

3. American Artist ERIN HAMMOND explores the radical fascist fashion of idealised perfection in humanity and science through neo-expressionism. Hammond focuses on the inner versus outer experiences. This piece, 60" x 94" entitled "Silence You" is available at LITT Concept House in Los Angeles, CA. Find out more www.erinhammondart.com and follow @erinhammondart

4. Abstract artist, PATRICK EARLE, creates strikingly bright and bold visual experiences, designed to immerse the viewer in the joy of the moment.
